TRAUMA FINANCE & BUSINESS PLANNING COURSE

BUILDING YOUR PROFESSIONAL CREDIBILITY

Thursday, November 12, 2009

This didactic and roundtable planning course, led by actual trauma center CEO's, will have two lecture tracks: basic and advanced, after which participants will analyze a number of cases for panel and participant review. NFTC supplies real trauma center data to help guide case studies so that participants from Trauma Program Managers, CEO/CFO's, to Trauma Medical Directors participate as a team to build a sustainable model for

TRAUMA CENTER LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

A NATIONAL PERSPECTIVE

Friday, November 13, 2009

This course covers the national agenda for trauma centers and systems from finance, advocacy and regulatory perspectives. NFTC's approach is to have participants leave with a broad understanding of where healthcare reform, Federal trauma finance legislation and other fiscal modalities are going. The afternoon sessions are divided into Executive Tracks specific to the needs of Trauma Program and System Managers, Trauma Center Executives, and Trauma Medical Directors and will focus on operational and fiscal issues that can alter the course of trauma program survival.

TRAUMA SYSTEM DEVELOPMENT

AN INTEGRATIVE APPROACH

Saturday, November 14, 2009

As pressures increase for inter-governmental reorganization, trauma systems and regions may assume responsibility for all-hazards planning, pandemics and even heart/ stroke care regionalization or lose control over their own destiny. This course will review any new or upcoming National and Federal Standards of Care. In addition, we will encompass individual Trauma Center's involvement in system planning both regionally and statewide to include PI, Trauma Registry, System Indicators, and Hospital Expectations. So, whether you are a System Manager or Trauma Center Leader, plan on attending this course to keep in line with Trauma's National Initiatives.

TRAUMA MEDICAL DIRECTOR COURSE

A COMPREHENSIVE BUSINESS LEADERSHIP COURSE

(CME's will be available)

Friday - Sunday, November 13- 15, 2009

This extremely popular course, modeled after the Harvard Business School case based approach to learning, is limited to 30 Trauma Surgeons who are either acting or aspiring to become Trauma Medical Directors. The course offers CME's, an interactive approach, and in an open forum discussing real problems in a confidential environment.

Full brochure will be available in March, 2009
