Adult Protective Services: Basic Skills

Description

The Adult Protective Services: Basic Skills, pre-service and classroom training components, provide county DSS staff with a working knowledge of law, policy, and practice competencies which will enhance their basic skills in receiving and evaluating reports and in planning services for abused, neglected or exploited disabled adults who are found to be in need of protective services. Training methods include lecture, group discussions, skills practice, and work with case studies. The training consists of three (3) days of pre-service and five (5) days of classroom training.

The Pre-Service component of this training will provide DSS staff with a baseline of information and resources. It is designed to give a starting foundation for the classroom portion of training. Pre-Service focuses on policy and law, critical APS definitions, the eight (8) ethics and principles of APS, APS statistics, Administration for Community Living (ACL) “voluntary APS guidelines” and identifying key persons and processes for APS in the DSS agency. The classroom component has been designed to provide hands on experience to each part of the APS process and to further establish the foundations of APS so that casework is successful.

Day 1 of APS Basic Skills concentrates on the competency of Intake. Intake is the foundation of Adult Protective Services and is the first contact with the adult.

Day 2 of APS Basic Skills concentrates on the competency of the Evaluation. The Evaluation phase not only provides the information necessary to confirm or unconfirm maltreatment but provides an in depth look at all functional domains of the adult.

Day 3 of APS Basic Skills concentrates on the competency of the Planning and Mobilization phase. The Planning and Mobilization phase is dynamic and has multiple components. It is divided into two parts with the focus of Day 3 being on making the case decision and capacity decision.

Day 4 of APS Basic Skills continues its concentration on the competency of Planning and Mobilization. The second component of Planning and Mobilization is on obtaining service authorization, the provision of services, and developing the protective services service plan.

Day 5 of APS Basic Skills finishes its training of all competencies by focusing on the Reassessment and Closure, Special Circumstances, and an overview of the administrative functions of APS. APS is a short term, crisis-oriented service and careful attention to the reassessment is critical.

Objectives

At the conclusion of the pre-service and classroom training, participants will be able to:

1. understand and use the statutory requirements, state policies, and social work practice guidelines in APS;
2. understand what the Administration for Community Living (ACL) “voluntary APS guidelines” are and how many of the APS Voluntary Guidelines are already implemented in what you do
3. understand the reason for consistent implementation of these statutory requirements and policies and guidelines from county to county;
4. improve service delivery to APS clients through the use of knowledge, skills, and values covered in this training;
5. demonstrate basic skills in APS report screening; assessment and evaluation; case decision-making; assessment of capacity to consent; service authorization, planning and provision; special issues related to APS in facilities; and case documentation

6. understand the philosophical framework which emphasizes social work values critical to APS practice; and
7. operate with confidence in a complex program area.

Audience

Social workers who have responsibility for evaluating and planning services for Adult Protective Services cases and line supervisors who have management responsibility for this program area. Social workers who provide back-up or after-hours coverage for Adult Protective Services or have responsibility for adult services intake will also find this training beneficial.

Adult Protective Services: Assessing An Adult's Capacity To Consent

Description

This one-day workshop entitled “Assessing An Adult's Capacity To Consent” provides participants an excellent opportunity to learn about and discuss capacity as it relates to Adult Protective Services. Capacity is defined; and the differences and similarities between capacity and competence are discussed. Lecture and small group discussion are used to break capacity down into its very basic degrees and components to help participants better understand the concept of capacity to consent or refuse protective services. Principles for determining whether an adult has or lacks capacity to consent to protective services are explored, including using APS evaluation data to assist with making a decision about capacity to consent as well as available assessment tools for determining capacity. Participants learn the importance of obtaining help, when necessary, in making a capacity decision; and the importance of accurately and thoroughly documenting how the decision was reached.

Objectives

At the conclusion of this training, participants will:

1. be able to identify indicators of capacity;
2. be familiar with tools used to assist in assessing capacity;
3. be familiar with mental health problems and acute illness and how these impact capacity;
4. be empowered to make the capacity decision;
5. understand that a social worker's judgment and skills are a valuable resource in determining an adult's capacity; and
6. be able to access other professionals to assist with gathering information to make a capacity decision.

Audience

Social workers and supervisors with responsibility for evaluating and planning service interventions in APS cases. The training is being offered as an advanced level course (beyond the Basic Skills Training) for APS staff. Completion of the Adult Protective Services Basic Skills training is a prerequisite for attending this workshop.

5. understand the need to balance the guardian’s duty to advocate for the ward’s right to self determination with the duty to protect the ward;
6. describe some of the ethical obligations of the guardian/guardian representative;
7. practice a principled approach to ethical reasoning;

Service Planning (Webinar)

Description

The purpose of this online training event is to teach case managers how to create meaningful service plans that assist people who are in need, and to find ways to help them meet those needs. It is not an easy process because of the chaotic nature of human beings, and seldom is it a linear process. Case managers must therefore be creative in their approach to service plans.

This two-hour (10:00 AM to 12:00 PM) training event teaches techniques for making individualized service plans that create an atmosphere of real change for clients and families.

Many of the materials utilized in this on-line training are taken from A Guide to Record Keeping for Adult Services Social Workers. You can view and download the entire manual by going to:

<http://ssw.unc.edu/cares/rk/recordkeeping.pdf>

This is an extremely helpful tool for case managers, and we highly recommend that you have your own copy of the manual. Service planning follows directly behind the section on assessments; and because a good service plan is dependent on a good assessment, you should review this section before participating in this training.

Objectives

At the conclusion of this training, participants will be able to:

1. Identify needs from the assessment and create an individualized service plan to meet those needs;
2. Be creative in their approach to design solutions to meet the resident needs;
3. Listen to the resident/legal representative or staff members in order to determine not only what they need but what they want (person-centered); and
4. Learn how to evaluate progress on the service plan and what to do when a goal is met or is no longer relevant.

Audience

Social workers and supervisors responsible for developing and implementing service plans. Case managers must have access to a computer to participate.

Severe and Persistent Mental Illness (SPMI)

Description

Largely as a result of psychotropic medications introduced in the 1950s and the social policies of the 1960s, many people with serious mental illness left the state psychiatric hospitals and returned to the community. Unfortunately, appropriate community resources were not in place and the extent of the needs of this group of people was not anticipated. Some people were able to live independently; many others moved in with families. Still others were placed in rest homes and family care homes. Some were left homeless. Most of these people needed support and many turned to the Departments of Social Services (DSSs) for help.

Social workers in DSS are involved with individuals who have mental illness in many capacities, including health support, individual and family adjustment services, protective services investigations, guardianship, representative payee cases and domiciliary care placements.

The overall goal of this two day workshop is to provide information about mental illness, to offer skill-building exercises for workers providing services to mental ill individuals, acquaint workers with the variety of mental health services that has been provided to mental ill individuals, and to encourage social workers to explore ways that people in the community agencies can work together to serve individuals with serious mental illness more effectively.

This new course is a revision of "Working with DSS Clients who have Serious Mental Illness". If you have attended the previous course, you will still benefit from participating in this new course, as the material has been updated to include new research and new training techniques.

Recommended For

This curriculum is designed for both new adult services social workers and supervisors from North Carolina County Departments of Social Services. More experienced social workers and supervisors desiring a greater understanding of effective DSS social work practice in working with individuals with SPMI, including assessment, planning, intervention, and evaluation techniques may want to attend.

State-County Special Assistance In-Home Case Management Training

Description

The Special Assistance In-Home (SA/IH) case management training is based upon the SA/IH manual for DSS Social workers and provides enhanced guidance on program policy and social work practice. It will educate DSS social workers in all areas of SA/IH policy. The training begins with the intake process and guides the social worker all the way through the SA/IH case management process. Practical guidance for everyday practice is included in this curriculum. Participants will also get the opportunity to work in groups on a practice case.

Objectives

At the conclusion of this training session, SA/IH case managers and supervisors will have a better understanding of the SA/IH program and should be able to apply what they have learned to improve everyday practice.

Audience

SA/IH case managers and supervisors in county departments of social services are the target audience for this training. This training is suitable for case managers with any level of experience.

Staff in county departments of social services who provide case management for SA/IH recipients are the target audience for this training. There are no pre-requisite case management trainings required for this course.
