RPC is a trauma-informed, 16-hour in-service training that has shifted the way our parents are working with youth. While it is a publically available curriculum, we have found that it can be very complicated to deliver. Master RPC Trainers will help ensure applicants fully understand the content of the curriculum, provide feedback on their delivery of RPC and provide on-going consultation to the applicant as they deliver the training to the parents in their home community.

This opportunity is for professionals from public or private licensed child placing agencies and mental health agencies in North Carolina. We encourage multiple individuals from agencies to submit an application. Each Facilitator-in-Training will complete a significant amount of pre-work and participate in group consultation calls before and after attending a three day face-to-face training. This is a competitive application process.

If you are a child welfare or mental health professional and wish to be trained as a Staff Facilitator, please click here to fill out an application. Those accepted and who successfully complete the training can be listed on the North Carolina RPC Facilitator Roster. If you have any questions or would like additional information, please contact Dina Gerber at the Center for Child and Family Health via e-mail at dina.gerber@duke.edu or phone at 919-385-0787.

Training is provided by staff at the Center for Child & Family Health and is funded by the NC Division of Social Services.
